To Whom It May Concern:

Greg Parker facilitated the Professional Presentation Skills 2 - day training program for 13 of our senior managers from around Australia. These managers are required to give formal and informal presentations to shareholders, company owners and directors, various levels of management and also to internal teams.

Greg's style was engaging, personable, easy to follow and fast paced. He displayed an excellent ability to read the audience, relate to individual personalities, keep the teams attention at all times and maintain control of the group.

Feedback from the team has been that he was one of the 'best trainers they have ever had', 'best facilitator they have had' and that he provided a 'great balance of fun, encouragement and heaps of challenge'.

Some of the most valuable techniques to come out of the training were how to structure presentations, voice range and expression to best get the message across and the individual feedback and coaching provided.

I would have no hesitation in recommending this program to other organisations and will continue to use TGI for training in the future.
